

TEAM STEALTH

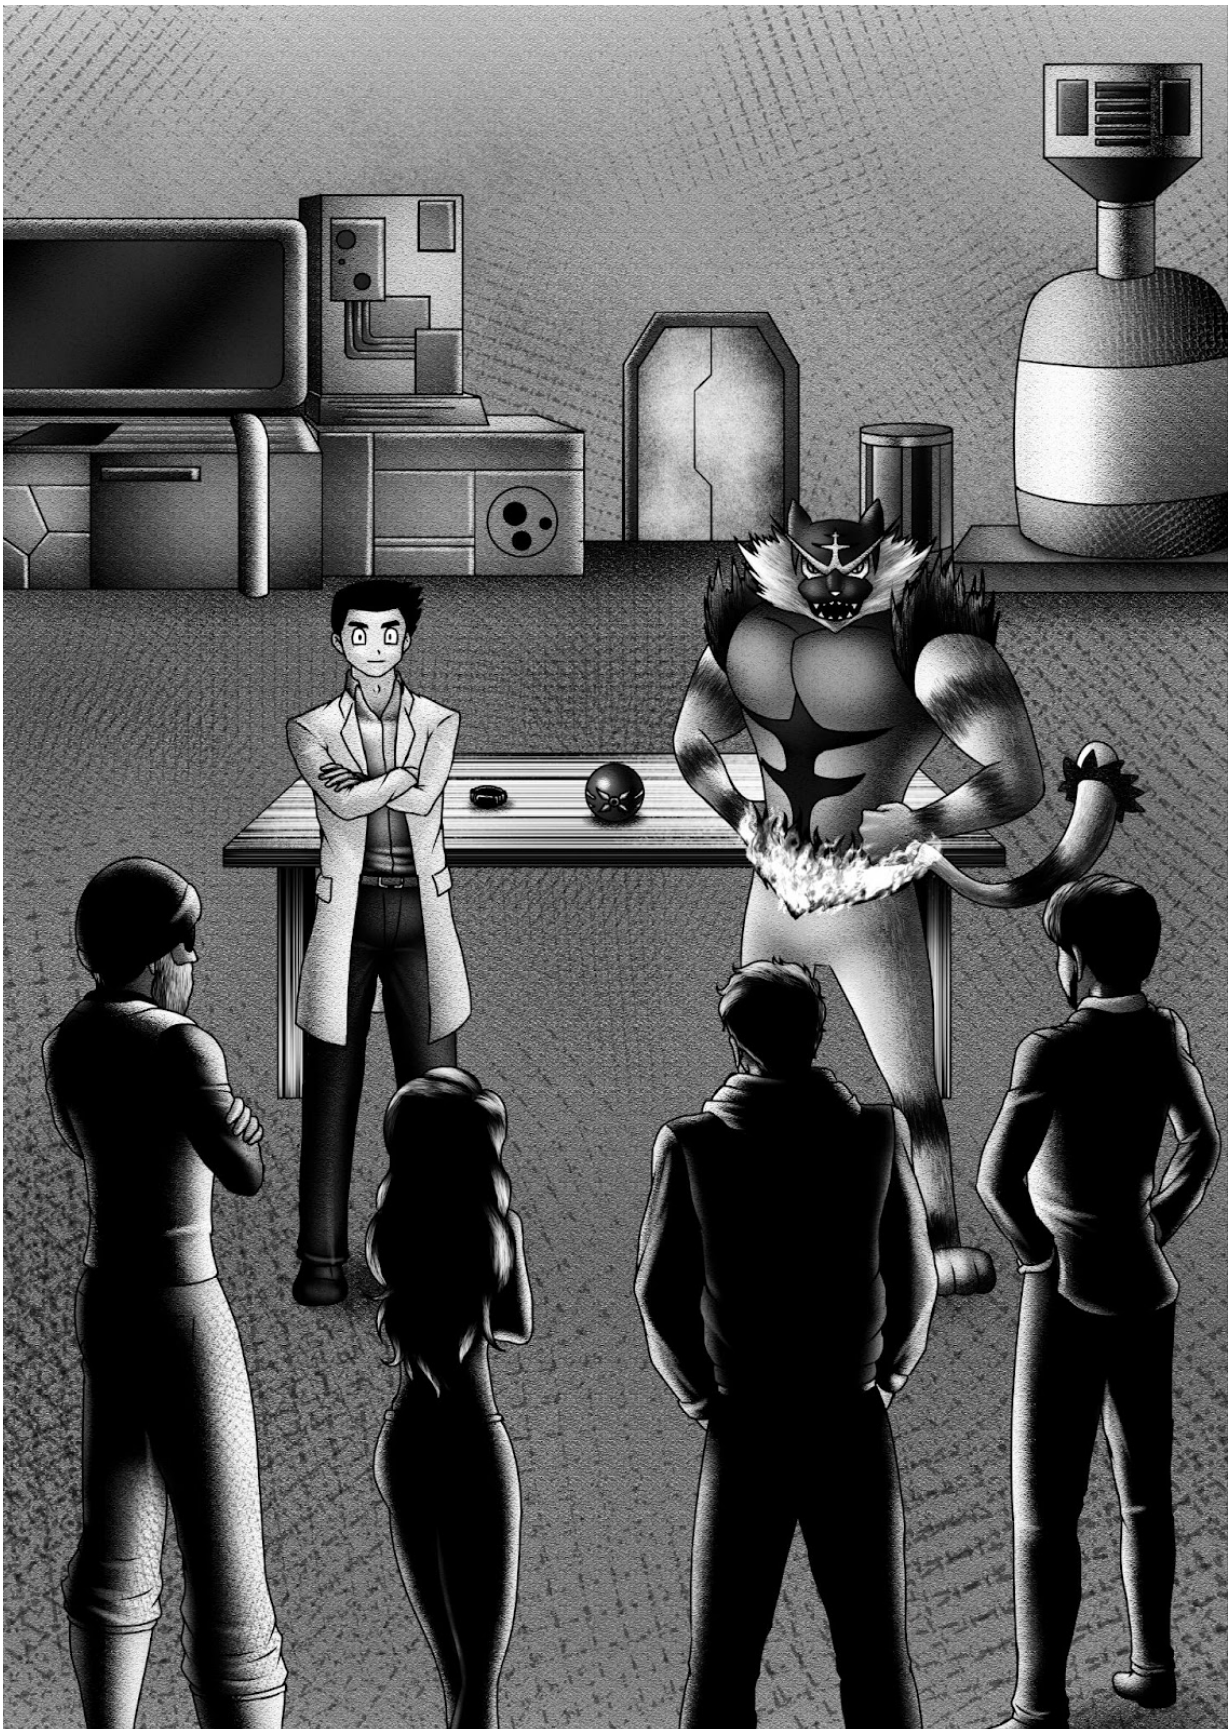

Team stealth arrived in the UK, this time they weren't there for a mission. A surprise waited for them. They stood in front of a mountain nestled away in the midlands, the air was crisp, and the side of the large mountain was rough and overgrown.

"So, where's the building we were told to go to?" AyyyLexa asked, confused at the sight.

"Let's wait a moment, they said to stand in this exact location and wait on them." FarmDon explained, the group stood looking around. A loud clunk startled them, the rockface drew back and out revealing a steel elevator.

After a moment of hesitation, Trainerclub joked, "I guess this is it." The group stepped in, the elevator was bare, and one lone camera watched them as they descended deep into the mountain. "How did they manage to carve the mountain out like this, you can't even see anything from the outside?" AyyyLexa wondered, the rest shrugged also wondering the same thing.

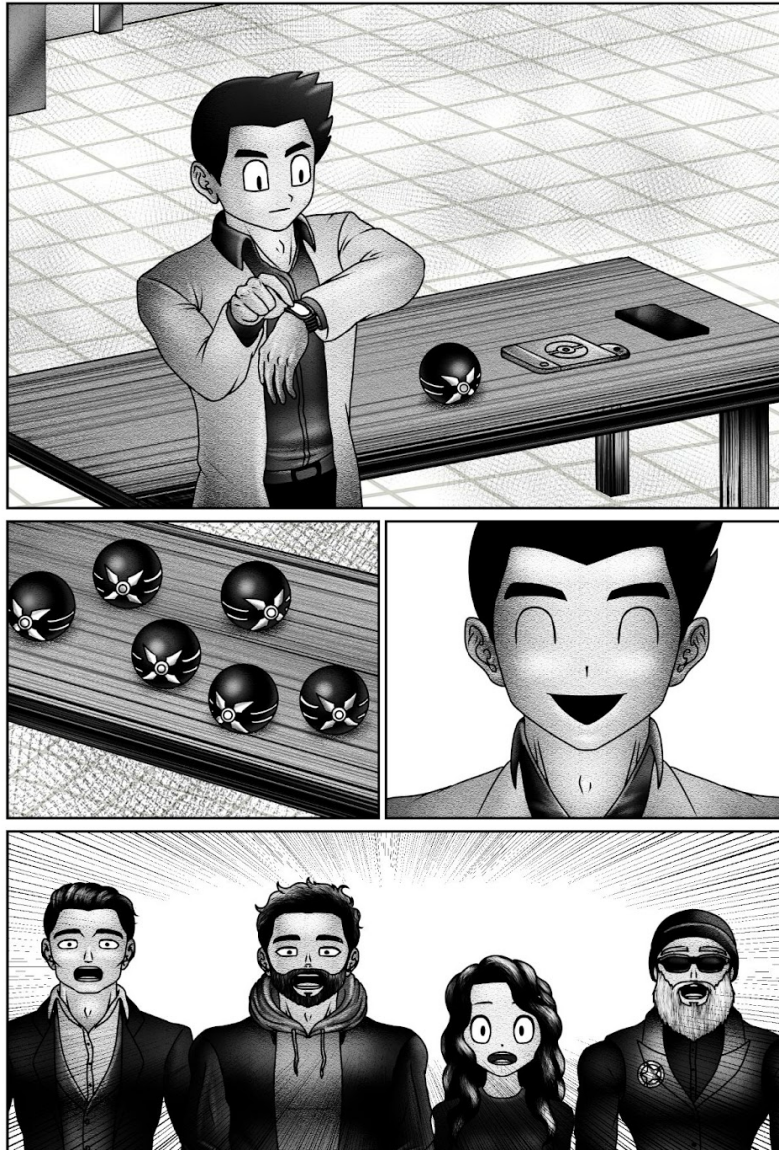

The elevator came to a halt, and they stepped out. "Welcome to Daytel!"

"It's nice to finally meet you Team Stealth" a voice echoed through the room. "I'm the director, M of the Pokémon faction of MI6" he added. In front of him lay a dark wooden table, he stood up accompanied by an incineroar which stood tall beside him, its flames lapped at its sides. "This is what you're here for." He said pointing at the table. On the table lay a single Pokeball. "Is it just this?" Rang3r said with a tinge of disappointment in his voice as he picked up the black sphere.

"Tch, no no no, watch this..." M said. As he tapped his wristwatch, suddenly the Pokeball disappeared. He tapped again and 6 Pokeballs appeared on the table.

"What!" The group shouted in unison as the man chuckled. "Surprise!" he teased "These are Stealth balls, I won't bore you with all their features but the main thing is the invisibility aspect." Each of them started inspecting one. "I saw you tapped your watch to make them disappear and reappear again, is that how we control them?" Farndon asked, "Exactly! This is our "Go-tcha Stealth Watch or GSW, and the main piece of new equipment we created for all Team Stealth Agents worldwide."

"It lets you turn the stealth ball visible or as we call it, deactivate stealth mode, and it's also handy for finding them easily while on missions." M explained. They each were handed a stealth watch and a dozen stealth Pokeballs. "Thank you, but what do we do if we need more?" Trainerclub asked "We can transfer them to you at any Pokemon centre." M replied They each looked at their watches. "They are rechargeable with the type C wireless cable in the box. M told them, "The watch is turned on by pushing the rotary crown button on the right side, It should tell you the software version it's on when it turns on. After that, it'll just be the clock face as the default screen. From there you can set auto throw, set it to auto-restock at pokestops, check your catch success rate for known and unknown Pokémon, and we have also programmed in a 30 minute timer we call 'The Buddy Timer' for special mission tasks. And it all communicates with your Smart phone or Pokedex." M finished, "That's Amazing!, it doesn't make any unnecessary noise or lights right? We are a stealth team, and have to go unnoticed on missions and in our daily lives." Farndon asked. "We had stealth in mind when making it so rest assured no-one will know you're from the Pokemon Integrity Enforcement (P-I-E). We also included a rugged aluminium frame that makes it perfect for missions" He answered.

The group all tried out the watch on a few Pokémon in a training room and all came back beaming. "I like it a lot." AyyyLexa chirped.

"Well, that's it" M said " it's now up to you to take it out in the field and give it real world testing. You can check out the instruction manual I have uploaded to the Stealth computer for all the functions. Good Luck Team Stealth!"

They stepped out of the room and into the elevator, heading to the surface. "That was timely, the watch is perfect for our next mission." Rang3r announced, "By the way, where is our next mission?" Trainer club answered; "Mexico City! And it should be the perfect place to try these puppies out!" Farndon nodded, AyyyLexa said "Si" and laughed.

To be continued...